Evangelist Sid Williams Apparently to Entire Approval of 1000 Auditors Severely Criticised Sanitary Condition of City.

NO WONDER DOCTORS HAVEN'T HAD TIME TO ATTEND CHURCH
Strongly Condemns Practice of Buying of Sears, Roebuck Co. Should Help The People Who Help You.

In his preliminary remarks last night, Rev. Sid Williams admonished the people of Ada to be true to their fellow townsmen, stand together in the building up of the town, dwelling at length on patronizing their own merchants. He doesn't approve of the people of Ada investing their money with the merchants of Oklahoma City or Dallas because they think they could purchase their goods for less money. Mr. Williams addressed himself to the Sears & Roebuck patrons thus: "If you want anything, you send to Sears & Roebuck, and if ever I did see a first class piece of furniture that came from Sears & Roebuck, I don't know it. There was a man in a certain town that wanted to buy a bath tub and he asked his plumber what it would cost him to get it and put it up. When he had made him a price, the man said, 'I can beat that all to pieces.' He got his bath tub from Sears & Roebuck, but he didn't get a faucet with it nor three days to clean up and if you don't clean up he takes you in a little carriage down to the police department where they fine you and make you clean up. I don't live in a place where, when you get water from the waterworks and pour it out in the bowl a lot of wiggle-tails crawl around in your bowl and you are afraid you are going to have a lot of tadpoles before you get your hands washed. I would rather pay for a barrel of lime and buy a dollar's worth of carbolic acid and scatter it over the premises than to pay a doctor and drug bill of $60 or $70.

"Clean up your town, brother, and stand by your town. If you will pull together in one steady pull, and just as sure as all the citizens in this town help that 25,000 club, it won't be many years until you will have 25,000 in this town."

"DR. COOK HAT" IS LATEST.

New Headgear for Women Is Two Feet Tall, "Polar" in Shape and Constructed of Fur.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 3.—Dr. Cook, struggling against the blizzard of the great north and the more subtle danger of the food tin, little thought of the face that was to be his when he reached the very top of the world.

The newest fashion in women's hats has been named the "Dr. Cook."

The Dr. Cook hat is suggestive of the polar region. It seems as high as the cartoonist's picture of the Pole although in reality it is only two feet tall. It is constructed of brown fur, fuzzy and expensive. It is just such a hat as the famous explorer might have drawn over his head when the wind blew cold and it looks massive and solid enough to furnish forth a good soup in case of arctic emergencies. Further heightening its chilly effect is a snowlike spray, or agrette high upon the left side.

OUR CHARLIE CARTER SMART AND HANDSOME

SAM BLYTHE AMONG HIS "WHO IS WHO" ARTICLES IN SATURDAY EVENING POST BOASTS GOOD LOOKS AND GOOD SENSE OF OUR INDIAN CONGRESSMAN.

COLLEAGUES GOT WISE QUICK

When Charlie Got Up and Told the Facts With Which They Were Not Acquainted, About the Indian Question.

One day, during the Sixtieth Congress—this one is the Sixty-first—some Indian question was up. Indian questions are always up in the House whenever there is a chance to get them up, for there seems to be a million Indian questions for which there are no answers. This particular question was knotty and gnarly and the house was floundering over it. Presently, a clean-cut, square-shouldered, handsome young chap over on the democratic side got recognition and in a short speech told the house many things about the Indian problem that didn't know. He expressed himself tersely and to the point and when he finished a lot of members asked, "Who was that?"

It was Carter, seven-sixteenths Chickasaw and Cherokee, speaking with first-hand knowledge and with honest conviction. He had lived among the Indians all his life, and he knew. They gave him a liberal round of applause and began to look to him for Indian information, where in they displayed more sense than the House usually has, for, in the unnatural course of events in the House, when Indian information is desired a lawyer from Massachusetts or a plumber from Iowa or some other equally well-posted Indian sharp is relied upon.

Carter gets his start on his nine-sixteenths Scotch-Irish from Nathan Carter, who was captured when a small boy by the Shawnee Indians at the Wyoming Valley massacre. Nathan Carter was afterward traded to the Cherokees and married full-blood Cherokee woman. Carter's father Capt. Benjamin Carter, of the Confederate Army, married a one-fourth Chickasaw woman, Serena Guy, sister to Governor Guy of the Chickasaw nation. Carter was born in a log cabin at Boggy Depot, an old fort of the Choctaw nation, and when seven years old moved with his father to Mill Creek, a postoffice and stage-stand on the western frontier of the Chickasaw nation. He went to school for a few months in a log schoolhouse in that vicinity and worked as a cowboy between terms. Later he went to the manual training school at Tish-omingo, but missed two terms because they needed him as a cowboy on the ranch.

He finished the Tishomingo course in 1887 and cast about for something to do. He was a cowboy, with a reputation as a bronco buster, and he went to work for the Diamond Z outfit. He punched cows and busted broncos and rode the range for more than two years. Now, punching cows and busting broncos is exciting work and interesting, but not especially remunerative, and it wasn't long before Cowboy Carter decided to get out of it and make some money for himself, if he could. So he threw away his chaps and lariat and went to clerking in a store in Ardmore.

Here he was clerk, bookkeeper, cotton buyer and cotton weigher for a time, also mixing a bit in the Chickasaw politics. They made him auditor of public accounts of the Nation, member of the council and superintendent of schools. President McKinley appointed him mining trustee for the Indian Territory, where he served four years, quitting voluntarily in 1905 to go into the insurance business.

Indian politics is like every other kind of politics and when they began shaping the Indian Territory and Oklahoma into the present State of Oklahoma, Carter was on the spot. He had his Indian prestige back of him, and was strong with the whites. Thus, when it came time to select representatives for the new state, Carter was nominated and elected to the Sixtieth congress and sent back to the Sixty-first.

Several cowboys have been sent to congress, but mostly they have been conversational cowboys, not real ones. Carter was a real one, which is evidenced, in one way at least, by the fact that he doesn't brag of his feats of riding bucking broncos and shooting up towns and other sports, labors and pastimes in which cowboys are supposed to be proficient. He is a modest, unassuming, self-contained, able young fellow, well-informed as to the wants of his people and has already made for himself a considerable place on the democratic side.

Oklahoma is a new state, and there are people in it who have ardent desires to help her shape her destiny in various official capacities, rough hew them how she will. Indeed, when it comes to that they are prepared to do either rough or fancy hewing on said destinies if they can get the chance. Presently, it will be necessary to nominate candidates for governor. What a race it would be if the democrats would put up

THE YOUNG MAN IN POLITICS.

Thomas Collier Platt, lately United States senator from New York, has been studying politics from the outside and has decided, according to a recent magazine article from his pen, that "A young man finds opportunities in the political field to serve himself, his friends and the public." Out of a wealth of experience in official life, Mr. Platt should be qualified to give something like expert advice, yet in his statement he reflects his own career and points out the danger into which the young man entering upon a political career is apt to fall.

Undoubtedly the political field offers opportunities and attractions to the young man, but the temptation in that field is to 'serve himself and his friends,' at the expense of the public. Mr. Platt places the order of service first to himself, then to his friends and lately to the public. The temptation of the young politician to select the objects of his service in the order named by Mr. Platt is subtle and powerful. The young man who yields to the temptation soon finds the habit strongly entrenched and his service to the public is nil. The political historian of the future must record that Mr. Platt, in his long official career, was always good to himself and his friends, but his service to the public will not require many lines or words in recording.

The young man who decides to adopt politics as a profession—and it is a laudable ambition—will do well to reverse Mr. Platt's order of service to the end that he may take advantage of opportunities to serve the public, his friends and himself. The careers of such men as Thomas Collier Platt have taught the public to demand that hereafter the service of public men shall be directed first to the public.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

REV. WILLIAMS LAST NIGHT.

Referring to Evangelist Sid Williams' general demeanor and character of utterances last night, when Brother Stubblefield had called on the congregation for contributions in remuneration for the services of the Texas evangelist in Ada and there was a response of only a little more than a hundred dollars, it is evident to the News in the first place that Evangelist Williams was not feeling very well and did not exactly mean all he said and in the second place, that very unfortunately he misjudged the temper of the Ada people.

The News understands that a minister's prerogatives are almost unlimited and also confesses that in its sinner state, it trods delicate ground when it discusses pulpit proprieties, but it has been the News's thought that while the meeting in progress was a religious affair and held under the auspices of the Baptist church that to a large extent, under the conditions, it was a kind of "for the public good" enterprise and deserved to be boosted from the jump by all, and in such consideration, it was thought the proper thing when contributions were invited that all the boosters should get in on the subscription. Therefore the News felt more or less agitated, along with many other friends of the evangelist, and the meeting when he appeared to sacrifice the prospects of an evening of spiritual uplift and reclamation to his feeding of animosity against Ada and the congregation for illiberal contributions. The News believes Rev. Sid Williams has already accomplished great results in Ada and it believes that he and his talented children should receive five times as much for their devoted services as was forth coming last night.

The News's man has been mixed up in lots of subscription lists in Ada and has yet to see a decent response on a call, from a crowd en masse. Whether the reason has been timidity or deliberativeness is not worked out, but it is a fact, the Ada folks have never until now failed to properly respond when approached privately and intelligently.

Last night's small contribution is no sign that Sid Williams won't be treated decently by the friends of religion and the church in Ada.

LAND OF ICE

AT NORTH POLE

DR. COOK THOUGHT OF THE DIS-
BELIEVERS AND PLACED A
BRASS TUBE IN POLE.

Statement of Trip, Says Explorer, Can Be Found Buried Under American
Flag at the Pole.

London, Sept. 3.—A special dispatch received here from Skagen,
Denmark says:

"As the steamer Hans Egede steamed by I caught through my glasses a vision of a small man in a dark suit and peaked cap shading his eyes with his hands as if straining to see the welcome civilization after years in icy exile. It was Dr. Cook, the explorer, whose name is on every tongue. He was chatting with the captain on the bridge, now smiling, now waving his hand. I was aloof on board the Hans Egede.

"Somebody gave Dr. Cook a bouquet. Tears dimmed his eyes as he buried his face in their fragrance. 'It's years since I have seen flowers,' said the explorer with a quiver of emotion in his voice.

"I followed him to the cabin. His face was tanned from exposure. He looked the picture of splendid health. Only when he smiled one noticed the loss of two teeth.

"A fight with a polar bear did that," he said.

"You can tell the world," the explorer continued, "that I am in better condition than at any time, and look forward with an appetite to the festivities that are promised me. My dinner has been poor these last few years, and I shall have to make up for it.

"Dr. Cook then briefly described his journey. Regarding his discovery he said:

Day of Discovery.

"Then came April 21. That was the great day. We looked for the sun. As soon as I got it I made several observations. Great joy came over us. We were only sixteen miles from the desired spot. I said to myself, 'Bully for Frederick!' Then we went on.

"The last stretch was the easiest I ever made in my life, although I had still to make two observations and the ice was very broken here. But my spirits were high and I shouted like a boy. The Eskimos looked at one another, surprised at my gaiety. They did not share it.

"I felt that I ought to be there; I made my last observation and found that I was standing on the pole.

"My feelings? Well, I was too tired really to feel any sensation. I planted the stars and stripes in the ice field and my heart grew warm when I saw it wave in the wind."

How North Pole Looks.

"How does the North Pole look?" was asked.

"Well," said Dr. Cook, smiling, "it amounts to the size of a 25c piece. There is nothing to see but ice, ice; no water, only ice. There were more holes here than at the 87th degree, which shows there is more movement and drift here; but this and other observations I made afterward when I got more settled. I stopped two days at the pole and I assure you it was not easy to say goodbye to the spot.

Remembered Skeptics.

"As I was sitting at the pole I could not help smiling at the people who on my return would call the whole expedition a humbug. I was sure the people would say that I had bought my two witnesses and that my note book with my daily observations had been manufactured on board this ship.

"The only thing I can put up against this is what the York Eskimos have told Knud Rasmussen. Let the skeptics who disbelieve my story go to the North Pole. There they will find a small brass tube which I buried under the flag. That tube contains a short statement about my trip. I could not leave my visiting card, because I did not have one with me."

"Perhaps," the explorer added dryly, "I should have stayed there longer had it not begun to freeze in our idleness. The Eskimos were uneasy and the dogs howled fearfully. On April 23, therefore, I again turned my nose southward, which was much easier, as you can not turn your nose in any other direction when you stand at the pole."

Describing the return journey, Dr. Cook said:

"Fortune now smiled. We did twenty miles per day until we reached the 87th degree. Then I felt the ice moving eastward, carrying us with it. A terrible fog swept around us and kept up for three weeks. We got no further than the 84th degree.

Then began a heavy walk toward Hebergland, and another three weeks of fog. When that cleared, I saw we had drifted southwest to Ringnesland, where we found open water and tower-high screw ice, which stopped our way eastward.

"We now began to suffer hunger. Our provisions were becoming exhausted, and we were unable to find depots. We entered Ringnesland, and on June 20 found the first animals on our return—bear and seal. We shot a bear.

"And now our goal was the whalers at Lancaster Sound. We followed the drift ice to the south eighty miles a day, but was stopped by pack ice in Wellington Channel, which was impassable either by boat or sledge.

Find Plenty of Game.

"Here was lots of game, but we did not dare shoot it. We had only taken 100 bullets to the Pole and now had only fifteen left. We went into Jones Sound after whales and bears, and found open, calm weather. We met Polar wolves, with which some of our dogs made friends and ran away.

"Now we spent day and night in an open boat about ten miles from shore. This lasted for two months, while storms often raged over our heads. At last we got ashore again, but we had no fuel and were obliged to eat birds raw. Next day we found fuel, and what a feast we had. But we suffered much hunger during this period. We had many fights with musk oxen which attacked us. Our best weapon against them was the lasso."

The correspondent's story quotes Dr. Cook as saying in conclusion:

"Say, the day we reached our provision stores at Etah was a greater day than April 21. I long to get back to civilization, to move among my fellowmen; I long to press my wife to my heart. I am the happiest man living. Tell the whole world I thank God I am back."

A schedule of eight games has been arranged, four of which will be played on the home grounds, and the committee on Athletics is determined that the other schools will sit up and take notice when they meet the Orange and Blacks on the gridiron. NO SPECIAL SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE

Emergency Must Be Far More Important Than Any Existing.

Guthrie, Okla., Sept. 3.—There will be no special session of the legislature unless some emergency of far more importance than exists at the present arises. Governor Haskell made a definite announcement to that effect to State Superintendent Cameron Friday morning.

Supt. Cameron went to the governor's office with a committee of business men from Chickasha to see about the date for the opening of the state girls' industrial school, established by the recent legislature but for which no appropriation was made.

The governor's decision means the probable abandonment of the school for a year or two—or until the next legislature meets. There is no money for maintenance. The Chickasha delegation presented the offer of that town to finance the school for one winter. The citizens do not think it advisable to support the institution until the next regular legislative session, however.

The state normal at Ada will encounter the same bar to existence. There is no appropriation for it.

WAS IT IN OKLAHOMA JONAH SWALLOWED WHALE

Sapulpa, Okla., Sept. 4.—Was Oklahoma the lost Garden of Eden? Did the big whale that swallowed Jonah make his home in this neck of the woods, or rather in this section of an ancient sea?

Did Noah build his ark and set sail from this part of the country.

Today John Smith of Independence, Kansas, was in the city. Mr. Smith is a descendant of that John Smith who was saved by the beautiful Pocahontas. He is the president of the Central Light and Fuel company, and his mission here was to sign contracts to furnish gas by the millions of cubic feet for the new steel plant, the packing plant, the newest brick plant and the iron foundry and machine shop, all now under construction.

In a scientific discourse on the origin of oil and gas Mr. Smith states that this part of Oklahoma, and perhaps the entire state, was at one time the bottom of the sea. He says that billions of whales and other animal life teemed in the waters, and when the seas began to abate the animals congregated in the deepest valleys, where there was plenty of water, struggling for life; when the ocean became dry it left this animal matter, which was later covered by drifts of sand, earthquakes and storms, and finally became oil. He says that gas is merely the vapor from oil. Mr. Smith declares that drills must find these valleys before oil or gas can be found.

THE EAST IS LAND OF PETRIFIED CONSERVATISM

Easterners Believe Westerners Bunch of Radicals; Great Unwashed Bulls in China Shop.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 3.—President Taft has not been practicing criminal law lately, I presume, so I fancy it's going to be rather an over-draft on his resources to elucidate the Payne law on his forthcoming swing around the circle.

Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, said the foregoing at the Hotel Baltimore this morning.

"Up around Beverly," he continued, "in that land of petrified conservatism, that's a poor place to get the atmosphere of the country. Up in Massachusetts they believe all progress is radicalism. It's a pity there's not more intercourse between the East and West. They believe we're a bunch of radicals out here; the great unwashed; bulls in a china shop and all that kind of thing.

"What an awakening they are coming to, with the theater of operations in this country shifting to the Mississippi Valley. It's the Mississippi Basin that's really the throne of the country. And when this power comes to the West—as it will in a decade—it will not be misused to the prejudice of the East as the power of the East has been misused to the prejudice of the west. It will be used for the country's good."

Senator Gore was on his way to Oklahoma City. He has only one Chattanooga date unfilled. He will be in Liberty, Mo., September 8, returning from Muskogee, Okla., to fill an engagement.

MRS. J. B. WALL AT HOME FORMER FURMAN RESIDENCE

Mrs. J. B. Wall of whom much complimentary reference was published in the Ardmore papers on the occasions of the good-bye receptions extended her when she was preparing for departure for the new Ada home, is domiciled at the former Furman home in Sunrise.

While the new home was being made ready Mrs. Wall, her children and mother, Mrs. Smith, were the guests of her friend, Mrs. Tom Hope, her present close neighbor.

Mrs. Wall comes to Ada by no means a stranger, for in her capacity as one of the more prominent and popular club women of the state, she has been previously pleasantly associated with many Ada ladies. She is at present an officer of the State Federation of Women's clubs, being auditor of the Federation. Thus Ada has two state officers of the Oklahoma Federation.

The ladies of the city account Mrs. Wall a valuable acquisition to their social circles.

PUBLIC INFORMATION

While the Merchants & Planters Bank have opened for business, gotten in its burglar proof, screw door safe and added materially to the appearance of its home, its officers are very much disappointed that the arrival of the elegant fixtures ordered have been delayed.

Hereunder is published a letter self explanatory:

Merchants & Planters State Bank, Ada, Okla. My Dear Sir:—It now appears from the best information we can furnish it is going to be impossible to furnish your new fixtures for two or three weeks yet to come.

In explanation of this I would state this order reached the factory during the very busiest season of the year for the bank fixture people, as you know practically every bank that buys fixtures usually place orders so as to have the fixtures reach them before the fall crop moving season.

The factory advise us that it has always been a very difficult matter to secure delivery of material, such as glass, marble, oak and metal during the period between July and November, and that this year the situation in the trade is the worst ever known, and for that reason practically all the bank fixtures have recently been very badly delayed on account of the delay in arrival of material, shortage of help, etc., but that they are doing their very best, and will make shipment of your fixtures inside of the next two or three weeks.

We are very much disappointed ourselves, as we have been trusting to make delivery before this, but under the circumstances we are entirely helpless. Yours truly,

THE MULLINS-BLEVINS TRAGEDY

Further Particulars About Killing Near Conway Thursday Night.

Further facts relative to the killing of Blevins on Thursday night by Ben Mullins, indicates that the awful tragedy resulted from an inconsequential row at a dance at the home of Alfred Blevins.

It seems that Tom Blevins attempted to dance before his "set" came around, and this resulted in a conflict with one of the Mullins boys' place. In a few moments a real mean fight started in the yard between Lucky Mullins and Tom Blevins. It seems that the deceased ran from around the house to the scene of the trouble and was immediately seized by Ben Mullins who ran out of the house about the same time. Blevins seeing a gun in Ben Mullins' hand turned and ran, whereupon Ben took deliberate aim and sent a ball from a 44 calibre Colt's pistol through his body. The ball entering below the left shoulder blade and made its exit near the left nipple.

Blevins fell and lived less than an hour. Ben Mullins left the scene of the tragedy and parties notified Deputy Kitchens at Stonewall, and he in company with Justice of the Peace Denton went to the scene at once. They soon located Mullins at his mother's home three miles west of Conway. He gave up without resistance. It is said that the deceased was a stranger in the Conway community and had arrived with his family from his home in the Creek nation the afternoon before his untimely death. He was a cousin to Alfred Blevins, where the dance took place, and was not acquainted with the man who took his life. The defendant when arrested, did not know that he had killed his man and stated that he thought that he was shooting at Tom Blevins. Mullins' examining trial has been set for Tuesday in Justice Brown's court.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DON'T BE A DEAD BEAT; BE OF SOME BENEFIT

SERMON SUBJECT, "THEY WERE ADDED TO THE CHURCH DAILY, SUCH AS WERE SAVED."

Let the Man Do the Fussing Who Does the Giving, He Has a Right to Fuss.

Mr. Williams stated that he was very tired and would only talk a short while, saving his strength and three best sermons for Saturday night and the Sunday services.

His text was, "They were added to the church daily, such as were saved." The Lord Jesus Christ while he was here upon earth established the church and said "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it." When He established the church it was His purpose that every man on earth might have a church home.

So Few Active Church Members.

In every church on earth we have so few active church men and women. We have their names on the book and they come when it suits their convenience, when it don't suit their convenience they don't come. Be of Some Benefit to the Church.

Every little boy and girl and every grown man and woman who unites with the church of Jesus Christ should purpose in their heart that they want to be of some benefit to Jesus Christ and want to build up the church.

Don't Be a Deadbeat.

The church is the only institution that will put up with a lot of dead-beats. The lodges will not do it. You will never hear a man on earth that talks about the preacher preaching for money who gives to the cause of the church. Let the man do the fussing who does the giving, he has got a right to fuss. A church treasurer, perplexed, came to me and asked why it was that people who never contributed to the church were always growling around and talking about giving to the pastor. I said, "Vass, don't you worry about that, for every church on earth has that kind of folks to fool with." There are actually men who would sit and let you build a sidewalk around their property, when they would be benefited by the increased valuation of their property, and yet never give a cent.

Saved People Will Want to Do Something.

I believe that every saved person will want to do something for Christ, will want to do something for his fellow man, if they can't do more than take a bunch of flowers and with the fragrance of christianity put them in the sick woman's vase and place them by the bed.

God Calls for Doers.

The call God is making today is for the men and women who are going to do something for the blessed Master. A Selfish Motive.

Some people join the church like they join the lodge. I never joined the lodge to get the sick benefits. The main purpose was that I might help somebody in the lodge I couldn't reach on the outside. There are worlds of people who unite with the lodge, not for the benefit they can be to the lodge or their fellow man, but for what they can get out of it for themselves. A man like that never was worthy anything to the lodge.

Every Saved Person Ought to Be in the Church.

If you could have lived a christian like out of the church, God never would have established the church.
